

FASB and Private Company Council Town Hall

We have been presented with a terrific opportunity to provide input directly to members of the Private Company Council (PCC) and the FASB at this year's 105th Annual Conference. The PCC and FASB will hold a "town hall" as part of a general session on June 21, 2018, at 10:30 am to get feedback from participants on how GAAP is working for private company stakeholders.

- Which standards are working well, and which not so well?
- Which standards, from experience, are overly complex or costly to apply, where the potential benefit to users doesn't seem to justify the cost?
- Where should there be additional consideration for alternative private company treatment?

To help ensure that the town hall is a success, we welcome stakeholders from industry, from public accounting, and from banking and other institutions that use GAAP information in their lending and investment decisions.

Registration for this session is free, if you would like to stay for other session a fee will apply.
